STORIES OF CRUELTY

Told in Several Divorce Complaints-A Slander Suit.

The new cases filed in the county clerk's office yesterday were mostly requests or demands for divorces. Eugene Russell complained that his wife Jennie is a "morphine fiend" and drinks liquor to excess, and has been drunk in public places. They were married in 1893.

George F. Crockett says that Armilda Crockett, his wife, refused to mend his clothes, prepare his meals, and habitually called him "names too vulgar to go up the court records." Crockett is an old soldier and a pensioner. They were married in February of this year and separated the month following.

Dessie L. Baker claims her husband Henry A. Baker, is not a fit man for her to live with and asks legal separation. She was married on New Year's day, 1899, and left her husband Wednesday, immediately filing her application for divorce

Louise M. Rahming says her husband a soldier in the United States army now stationed in Cuba, and that he has written her that he will never return. She also says he abandoned her before enlisting, and told her she must look out for herself and

AN ERRONEOUS REPORT.

It Is Claimed. Was Used in Making the Assessment.

The Board of State Tax Commissioners yesterday heard the appeal of the Chicago Terminal, the assessment of which was raised this year from $18,000 to $40,000 a mile. The road was represented by J. F. Meagher. of Chicago, who insisted that the report of the road, showing its earnings, upon which the State Tax Board made its assessment, was erroneous and asked the board to make a reduction. In the afternoon the toard held an executive session to consider the appeals which have been made during the last session.

MEN ACTED STRANGELY And One of Them Seemed to Have Plenty of Money.

The search of the city detectives for the two men supposed to be the murderers of the man found a few days ago in a catch basin at Cincinnati has resulted in nothing. Yesterday a man called upon Superintendent Quigley and said that two men answering the description of the men wanted were together in a saloon on Indiana avenue. He drank with them, and noticed the smaller was much worried over something. and made frequent trips from the bar to the door, where he would look each way on the street, as if in fear of being caught The other man said they wished to go to Chicago, intimating they were in some danger here. He asked the informant where they could catch a train for Chicago, and, upon being informed, left the saloon going in the direction indicated. During the conversation at the saloon the larger man produced a large bill book and showed a lot of bills in order to prove that he was display in Monument place. "not broke." City Sanitarian Clark said yesterday that the fund for cutting weeds in the city is nearly exhausted, and by the last of the month there will be no money for this purpose. The Council set aside $400 for weed cutting, and Dr. Clark says the amount is not large enough. The funds are used for cutting weeds on lots owned by nonresi-the expense is added to the taxes against the lots. > Dr. Clark is not satisfied with the weed strenuous efforts to have another passed by the Council before next spring. He says the ordinance now in use requires too much red tane, and the nonresident property owners cannot be made to cut the weeds on their lots, and the only recourse is for the city to do the work and charge the expense with the taxes. The property owners residing in the city can be served with notices to clean their lots, and if they do not warrants can be sworn out against them. Dr. Clark says if he can get an ordinance passed by the Council that will do away with so much red tape he thinks the weed nuisance will be greatly elimi-

The German day celebration begins tomorrow night with a big torchlight procession and concludes on Sunday with exercises at Germania Park. It is the intention to give a big parade and wind up the evening's programme with a pyrotechnic

The parade, which will be in three di visions, will form at 8 o'clock at Washington and New Jersey streets, and will march west on Washington street to Meridian: on Meridian to the monument: around the east side of the monument and west on Market to Illinois; south on Illinois to Washington; west on Washington to Senate avenue, where it will countermarch and return east on Washington to Meridian and thence north to the south side of the monument. The local singing societies will then form on the steps of the monument and render a special musical 'Star-spangled Banner." The feature of the pyrotechnical display will be the figures of Columbia and Germania, each forty feet in height. The fireworks and the torchlights will cost $1,000. On Sunday the celebration at Germania Park will be devoted chiefly to music and games for the children. President Francke, of the Maennerchor Society, will make a short address appropriate to the occasion.

Go to Chicago.

At a meeting of the Indianapolis Fire Insurance Association held yesterday afternoon a committee composed of Henry Coe, chairman, Robert Martindale, C. F. Sayles, Eugene Rehm, John Wocher and John J Appel was appointed to go to Chicago next Tuesday to confer with the governing committee of the Western Insurance Union regarding the increase of insurance rates in Indianapolis. The local insurance men are of opinion that the rates made by the governing com mittee for Indianapolis are entirely too high, and the committee from Indianapolis will endeavor to have the governing committee rescind its action at once so that it will not be necessary to put the new flat increase into effect. The insurance men of the city will hold a meeting at the Commercial Club this afternoon to discuss the situation thoroughly. Henry Coe, chairman of the committee to go to Chicago, said last night regarding the increase: "The insurance men of the city are all fighting against such a high increase for this city, as we are all of opinion that the, rates in Indianapolis should not be governed by the Chicago schedule, as the risks here are not nearly as great as in Chicago. The principal cause of the increase made by the governing committee was the large number of fires in Indianapolis last January, and all of the insurance companies lost money. The talk of increasing the rates in Indianapolis began long before the agitation arose over improving the fire department. Any city is liable to suffer greatly from fire losses no matter what kind of a fire department it has for protection, and last winter Indianapolis was one of the unfortunate cities. CONDITION EXAGGERATED.

I do not think the Indianapolis are d partment is in nearly as deplorable a condition as has been claimed, and my opinion is shared by the majority of the insurance men. The fire alarm system may not be model and might be improved, but I do not think it is in a 'deplorable' condition Neither do I think the fire-fighting apparatus and fire companies of the city are as weak as has been pictured in the last few weeks. The condition of the fire department had but little to do with the

"As I said, the question of raising rates in Indianapolis came up before the talk of bettering the fire department was brought before the notice of the people. It is true that Indianapolis has grown wonderfully in the last few years and the rates here necessarily be greater than in smaller cities. The increase as recommended applies largely to hazardous risks and the people who own buildings that are considered fire traps will have to pay higher insurance, which is no more than just. It will cause them to improve their buildings. The other increases we consider unjust and will endeavor to have the governing committee reduce the rates. We do not know what action the merchants will take in the matter of increased rates. There are some companies not included in the Western Insurance Union that may get some of the business, but as they lost money last year they may also increase the

It is said the insurance men representing companies in the Western Insurance Union fear that a large number of policy owners will cancel their insurance and go into other companies if the rates fixed by the governing committee are not reduced.

MRS. SARAH J. FOSTER DEAD.

Her Demise Occurred at the Home of Her Son, Gen. R. S. Foster.

Mrs. Sarah J. Foster, mother of Gen. F S. Foster, Edward J. Foster, Wallace Foster and C. C. Foster, died last night about 10:30 o'clock at the home of General Foster. She had been ill for several weeks, but during the last few days showed much improvement. The funeral arrangements will be announced later. Mrs. Foster was born in Ireland in 1812 and came to this country in 1818, living first at New York and Baltimore and removing to Indiana some years later, living at Vernon, where she was married. She came to Indianapolis in 1865. Her husband died in 1887. She was a member of the Central Christian Church and for some years had been quite active in the work of the HOTEL BOYS' PICNIC.

All Kinds of Amusements at the Fair Grounds.

Patrons of the city hotels were no doubt somewhat surprised yesterday at the activity displayed by the porters, waiters and bellboys. It was the day of their picnic at the fair grounds, and all were anxious to get away to the festivities.

The picnic was held in the afternoon, and among the attractions were foot races, bicycle races, a baseball game, a boxing contest and music by the Pickaninny Band, A parade of the principal streets during the morning was one of the features. The parade was disbanded a few minutes before noon to allow the waiters to serve the guests at the hotels.

KING OF ANIMAL OWNERS.

Frank C. Bostock Will Be in the City Carnival Week.

"If you like an entertainer who has traveled the world over and knows the salt of the earth you want to meet Frank C. Bostock at a stag dinner," said Albert Lieber, in speaking of the Frank C. Bostock Mighty Midway Carnival and Hagenbeck Backs, etc., etc. Animal Shows, both to be seen in Indianapolis carnival week. "Laine, Bostock's advance representative, is a prince, but I want my friends to meet Bostock," continued Mr. Lieber.

The career of Bostock has been interesting. He is a nephew of the late George Wombwell, of England, widely known as the owner of Wombwell's Royal Menagerie, which, in its day, was the only traveling zoology in the world. Bostock inherited the traits of his uncle, but concluded that America offered a better field of variety and enterprise than England. Bostock has collected from the jungle, the forest, the arctic and the torrid zones, from Asia's brute kingdom, from Australia, South America and elsewhere the rarest specimens of the animal world. These make up Hagenbeck's animal aggregation-the most noted in the world. He owns seven distinct shows in America and two in England, and is credited with controlling two-thirds of he trained animals of two continents. He believes in push.

The custom of having fall trade carnivals s distinctive in the United States, because there are so many commercial and agricultural centers. Bostock has become the king of street carnival entertainers. His "Mighty Midway Carnival" was orginated for furnishing fun for carnival goers. He rarely ever combines Hagenbeck's animal aggregation and the carnival attractions in one city, but Indianapolis will have them both. Bostock will be here himself during carnival week, and a number of stag parties for him have been arranged by Albert Lieber, Hugh J. McGowan, D. M. Parry and others, who love to be in company with a good entertainer and story
